BOTH SIDES CLAIM DECISIVE VICTORY

Government Predicts Early End of War
REBELS PROCLAIM NEW REPUBLICAN REGIME

Hendaye, July 24.

A big battle, in which rebel forces are stated to have gained the advantage, has been fought in the Pass Enderlaza, which borders on the provinces of Navarre and Guipuzcoa.—Reuter.

CLOSE TO MADRID

Lisbon, July 24.

The Conservative newspaper, Diario de Lisboa, reports through telephone advices from Madrid that royalists and rebels are fighting within a mile and a half of the Spanish capital.

Rebel planes have flown over the city and attempted to bomb the War Ministry. It is reported that gunfire is audible in Madrid.

Meanwhile, private sources here report that rebels have captured the Ministers of War and Interior, attempting to flee from Madrid.—United Press.

REBELS ROUTED?

Madrid, July 24.

An official Government communiqué claims that the rebel forces advancing on Madrid from the north have been put to flight at Sierra Fuadarama.

Government units have also routed rebel troops at Guadalajara, it is claimed.—Reuter.

LOYALISTS CONFIDENT

Madrid, July 24.

The Ministry of the Interior has issued a proclamation of victory, saying: "The enemy will be conquered in a few hours."

It is said it has been confirmed that Señor Juan March, a multi-millionaire, financed the revolt.

Simultaneously with the Ministry's proclamation, General Franco, the rebel commander-in-chief, broadcast the statement that "the revolution continues victorious."

In the north, the rebels under General Mola have proclaimed a new republican Government, contending that the old Government has disintegrated.

Meanwhile, the rebels have slowed their advance on Madrid, anticipating a stout defence. But it is reported that their advance guard have been involved in clashes north of the capital.

Rebels Hopeful

"Over eight-tenths of Spanish territory is in our hands," the rebel statement claims. "A free Spain must immediately resume her place in concert with civilised nations.

The new President, it is announced, is General San Miguel Caballadas, "a great patriot."

Meanwhile, the rebels have slowed their advance on Madrid, anticipating a stout defence. But it is reported that their advance guard have been involved in clashes north of the capital.

Holding Passes

It is announced that the Loyalists are still holding the mountain passes which lead to Madrid. Three thousand troops, reinforced by the same number of militiamen, routed rebel forces in a bitter battle in the mountains, north of the capital, splitting General Mola's column and forcing them to retreat, it is claimed.

Former Deputy Señor Antonio de la Villa, by telephone, reports that rebel columns sought to converge on Madrid from two points, but aircraft routed the column from Jadraque and isolated the force from Guadarrama.

Loyalists advanced to within fifteen miles of Ceguilla and it is predicted that a decisive moment has been reached.

Some sources say the rebels are in a desperate situation, especially in Seville and Albacete. An official report says loyalists have captured the rebel stronghold of Chinchilla.

Optimism

Private sources say the Government controls San Sebastian, Santander and Gijon, and that loyalists already have attacked and seriously damaged rebel forces at Mallorca, operating from their base at Barcelona.

The populace in Madrid has been warned to purchase foodstuffs only

WARSHIPS HASTEN TO SPAIN
MANY SAVED FROM DANGER POINTS
MUCH CONCERN STILL FELT

London, July 24.

International concern at the Spanish situation is undiminished. Anxiety has not been relieved with regard to the plight of British, French and German Embassies holidaying in San Sebastian and warships are now hurrying there, and to other Spanish towns to rescue foreign nationals.

British destroyers, the Verity and Veronica, have already arrived at San Sebastian.

Two of Germany's pocket-battleships, the Admiral Scheer and the Deutschland, are racing at full speed for Barcelona, where there are 6,000 Germans. Barcelona is one of the cities which is known to be literally in a state of siege and where there have been severe clashes.

Three British destroyers have arrived at Marseilles with 150 British refugees from Barcelona and another is expected shortly with another hundred aboard.

An ironical note was introduced by the rebel leader, General Franco, who to-day awarded the Military Cross to the master of the British steamer Gibell Derby, which rebel planes attempted to bomb yesterday. This act is presumably meant to be an expression of regret.—Reuter.

Fast Evacuation

Hendaye, July 24.

The British destroyer Verity has taken 300 passengers, including a number of British, from San Sebastian, where heavy fighting has occurred and continues.—Reuter.

Close Co-operation

San Sebastian, July 24.

British, French and American warships have evacuated hundreds of foreigners from this city.—United Press.

Washington despatches from various points in Spain state that beleaguered foreigners are being evacuated on a scale of international co-operation never equalled since the Boxer rebellion in China and virtually every major power is informally agreeing to aid those trapped in the war zones. France, through the American Embassy in Paris, has placed warships and merchantmen in Spanish waters in the service of Americans. Great Britain is negotiating hundreds of various nationalities and American ships are doing likewise.

Grave Danger

Wireless messages from San Sebastian state the place is in chaos and foreigners are gravely endangered.

Hundreds have taken refuge in the British, French, American and German embassies.

The Mayor of San Sebastian has ordered the women to assemble in designated places where he is undertaking to protect them.

A British destroyer has evacuated five Americans and three Britishers from Terragona and the cruiser London, at Barcelona, has embarked 100 Britons and is assisting in the evacuation of Americans. The American Consul-General, Mr. Bowers, fears for whose safety were held, is safe at his villa near Barcelona.

Briton Murdered

It is officially learned that the Spanish clerk of the American Consulate at Barcelona, Señor Iturralde, and a British companion, were killed on the night of July 22, while bringing Mr. George Jenkins, an executive of the Ford Motor Company, to the Consulate in an automobile flying the American flag.

A Consular report says the Spanish officials returned the bullet-riddled bodies and expressed "concern, sympathy and deep regret."

It is learned that "foreigners" at Majorca are safe, the area being in the hands of rebels.

Conditions in San Sebastian are said to be rapidly approaching anarchy.

Italy has despatched six cruisers to Spain to assist in the evacuation of foreigners.—United Press.

GERMANY WELCOMES ATHLETES

AMERICANS GIVEN WARM GREETING

CONTINGENT OF 502

Berlin, July 24.

Five hundred and two American athletes and officials arrived here to-day for the Olympic Games and received one of the liveliest ovations accorded to a visiting delegation.

Thousands jammed the station to meet the train which brought them and the entire German Olympic Committee formally welcomed the team, while a band played "The Star Spangled Banner." Everywhere the visitors received the Nazi salute.

"Conditions in Berlin are the finest ever provided for sports competition," said the American contingent's leader.

As the team drove to Olympic Village, riding on the tops of buses, the streets were lined by cheering thousands.—United Press.

Jews Abandon Pilgrimage

FEAR ATTACKS FROM ARAB ELEMENTS

Jerusalem, July 24.

Orthodox Jews will not make the annual pilgrimage to the Wailing Wall on Monday.

The Rabbis have cancelled the ceremonies owing to fear of disturbances, especially as the ancient fast day coincides with the hundredth day of the Arab strike.—Reuter Special.

CLIPPER HELD UP

Almeda, July 24.

The departure of the trans-Pacific Clipper plane, scheduled for to-day, has been postponed until July 29.—United Press.

EXPULSION SUSTAINED

U.S. OLYMPIC STAR TO GO HOME

Berlin, July 24.

A Special Olympic Committee meeting was held on the train from Hamburg to Berlin, on which the American Olympic team was travelling, and it sustained the expulsion of Mrs. Eleanor Holme Jarrett, American record-holding swimmer, from the team for repeated breach of rules.

Mrs. Jarrett tearfully pleaded for reinstatement, and promised to be a good girl from now on. She protested her career would be ruined. Her pleas were of no avail.—United Press.

King Unveiling Vimy's Canadian Memorial

London, July 24.

Over 6,000 Canadians land at Havre and Antwerp to-day and travel to Vimy Ridge, scene of heroic sacrifice and victory, where the inspiring monument to the Canadian Expeditionary Force will be unveiled by the King on July 26. It commemorates the 60,000 Canadians who died in France and Belgium.

At Vimy these 6,000 will be joined by another 1,500 ex-soldiers, already in London.

Bombs Aimed At American Merchantman

PROTEST LODGED BY CONSULATE

Washington, July 24.

The State Department has received that the American Consul-General, Mr. Maxwell Black, has protested to the rebel leader, General Franco, via the British Consulate at Tetuan, following the report of the master of the American steamer Exmouth that bombs were aimed at his craft by Spanish aeroplanes.

Three missiles were dropped within 100 yards of the Exmouth when she was on her way from Gibraltar to Malaga.

Apparently this incident occurred on Wednesday, simultaneously with the attempted bombing of a British steamer at Tangier by rebel aircraft, upon which the British destroyer, Whitehall, replied with several shots.—United Press.

McMahon is charged as a result of the attack on the King during the review of the Guards recently when he was found in possession of a revolver.

The letter to Sir John claimed that the writer was a victim of "organised persecution by your henchmen," which had prevented him obtaining employment.

The letter stated that as previous appeals to the King had been unsuccessful, he now demanded full satisfaction within fourteen hours, otherwise he would exercise his own prerogative and obtain adequate satisfaction.

The letter concluded: "This is no silly boast. I demand justice, irrespective of the consequences."—Reuter.

McMahon's Written Threats

READ IN BOW ST. POLICE COURT

ADDRESSED TO SIMON

London, July 24.

Before George McMahon's second appearance in the Bow Street Police Court had concluded to-day a letter allegedly written by the prisoner to Sir John Simon was read to the court by defending counsel.

McMahon is charged as a result of the attack on the King during the review of the Guards recently when he was found in possession of a revolver.

The letter to Sir John claimed that the writer was a victim of "organised persecution by your henchmen," which had prevented him obtaining employment.

Shirt, Shorts and Halter

Three essential garments for the Summer wardrobe

WHEN shorts were first introduced some four years ago they were looked at askance by all but the women who insist on being always ahead of fashion and the women who like to shout from the housetops of the emancipation of their sex.

Popular opinion, however, has changed since then and now everyone includes shorts as a necessary item in her wardrobe. Modern woman, even in her most feminine mood, is essentially practical and shorts are a practical garment; which is probably the main reason for the wholesale acceptance of this fashion.

BUT the improvement in design has also had something to do with our changed attitude. The first versions seem to us now to have been very hoydenish affairs, both in cut and fabric. To-day we make them in styles that add grace to our figures and in fabric pleasing to wear and properly decorative.

Look, for instance, at those pictured here. They have inverted box pleats down centre front and back and at the sides. The fullness provided by these pleats not only distinguishes the practical divided skirt, but also, by its clever arrangement, gives a slimming effect to hips and waistline.

The pleats worn by the first girl in the drawing are stitched so that they keep their shape without losing much of their fullness. In the second drawing the pleats are shown hanging freely.

THE shirt and the halter are the two types of garment that are being worn this year with shorts. Sections for both these garments are included in this pattern.

On the left figure is pictured the shirt. Its plain neckline and front wrap-over edge are plainly tailored and workmanlike. It has a "tail" that tucks well into the shorts and will not ride up in an ugly manner. And there's a yoke and easy-fitting box pleats at the back, as you can see from the small drawing.

Definitely an outfit that would be really comfortable for tennis, for walking, or for the beach.

"WE DON'T WANT JEWS Exiled Arab Leader Speaks

"BRITAIN BETRAYED US"

By LADISLAS FARAGO

JUST before he left under police escort for exile in Aujat-el-Hafr, the "Siberia" of Palestine, Fakhry Bey, Nasashibi leader of the Arab Labour party, gave me a dramatic interview.

In this interview he outlined the cause which every Arab is prepared to defend with his life. Fakhry Bey, ex-officer in the Turkish Army, is, in the British view, one of the most dangerous men in Palestine.

His removal to the desert prison camp for Arab National leaders has made him a hero in the eyes of the men who to-day continue their sniping attacks on British patrols and Jewish travellers.

I was present when the police escort arrived to take this fierce member of an aristocratic 500-year-old Arab family to the barbed-wire-surrounded camp, denominated by Arab rebels as the "British Concentration Camp."

THE STORM CENTRE

When I arrived at Fakhry Bey's modern house in the Nasashibi quarter of Jerusalem, where most of the shooting takes place, I was led into the presence of the Labour party chief.

The police had given orders that he was not to leave his Jerusalem home except to report to him three times a week. Yet I found him surrounded by a group of Arab agitators.

"You see," he said to me, "even if I may not leave my house, my friends come to me."

"We are in the situation to do, and to do, and to do, through them."

Fakhry Bey smiled and continued: "You are in the house of an Arab bandit, but are we not really comrades?"

"It is not this revolution been born upon us."

"We lived here in peace and contentment and obeyed the English, while they offered us a hope of independence."

"Then we realised we had been betrayed."

"We showed you British that we could fight for you."

"Now you are showing you we can fight just as well for our own cause."

"PROPHETIC WORDS"

"We don't care if Jews. Our movement is anti-Semitic, but we are not anti-Semitic."

"We have nothing against the British, but we are determined to stop any further Jewish immigration."

"I am hourly expecting that the police action in removing me from Jaffa will be followed by my removal to Aujat-el-Hafr."

"Within a few moments of this statement his words came true, and I saw him driven away in a police car."

To-day Fakhry Bey is a prisoner at Aujat-el-Hafr.

DOCTOR'S DEATH

An unusual tragedy occurred sometime yesterday in the Kowloon Hotel. Dr. Adal. Bert. Bards (49) a Hungarian, was found dead in his room, death being apparently due to poisoning and everything points to a case of suicide.

Dr. Bards came to the Colony on July 19 from Amoy and booked at the Kowloon Hotel. He left the same day for Canton and did not return until July 22. He reached the hotel late in the evening and it was assumed that he returned by the night boat.

Yesterday he was not disturbed during the day, for since he had booked his room he had intimated that he did not wish to have meals at the hotel. Finally, at about 4.30 p.m., one of the "boys" went to Dr. Bards' room with the intention of cleaning it, and when he could not get a reply to repeated knocks he became suspicious and entered. The room had not been entered earlier since it was believed that the doctor was sleeping.

The "boy" immediately reported the apparent death of the occupant of the room to Mr. White, manager of the hotel, who informed the Police and the hospital.

Dr. G. H. Henry, of Kowloon Hospital, came to the hotel and the body was later taken to Kowloon Hospital mortuary. A post mortem is to be held this morning.

The body of Dr. Bards was found three phials, all empty and it is assumed that he took his own life by poisoning.

His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to make the following appointment under the provisions of the Hongkong Volunteer Regulations, 1933: Captain Gerald Stuart Frizelle, of the Royal Ulster Rifles, to act as Adjutant, with effect from August 1.

TRAVEL MADE HIM
CONSTIPATED

Salesman Says Kruschen
Keeps Him "On His Toes"

"I am a commercial traveller," writes a correspondent, "and due to endless travelling by train, I find that I become constipated if I do not keep myself well purged. Kruschen Salts is the only thing that will do this effectively and not interfere with my work. I take a large dose of Kruschen every Saturday night, and on Sunday, when I have no work to do, the Salts act on me. On week-days I take a small dose the first thing on rising. It is necessary that I be 'on my toes' all through the day, and this is the only way that it possibly can be done. I have tried other laxatives and they have proven to be either unreliable or harsh in their action."—V. L.

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your body is thus kept clear of those impurities which, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

teeth that sparkle and charm

You, too, can have them—if you know this secret about removing film

Brushing with ordinary dentifrices can never give you the gleaming white teeth you envy. Only brushing with an effective film-removing dentifrice can do that. For film is the sticky, gummy coating that forms on teeth, obscures their natural beauty. Even worse, it glues to teeth the germs and acids associated with tooth decay. You must remove that film.

That's why we urge you to use Pepsodent, the special film-removing tooth paste. For Pepsodent contains a cleansing and polishing substance that is unexcelled in removing film from

Planets Affect Weather

Washington, July 20. THE movements of Venus and Mercury may have an important effect on weather phenomena. These two planets together with the earth are engaged in kicking whirlwinds back and forth around the disc of the sun.

These are some of the conclusions presented by Dr. Fernando Sanford of Palo Alto, California, in a study just presented through the Smithsonian Institution here, of the wide variations in the number of visible sun spots with different configurations of the three inner planets of the solar system.

Mrs. A. S. D. Maunder, English astronomer, some thirty years ago called attention to the fact that the invisible side of the sun turned away from the earth seemed considerably more favourable for sun spot activity than the terrestrial side. More spots were formed and fewer disappeared on the invisible side. For some reason the earth seemed to inhibit the formation of sun spots on its own side, or to aid their formation on the opposite side. Dr. Sanford reasoned that if this were true of earth it should be still more true of the planet Venus which is more than 20,000,000 miles closer to the sun, so that its influence should be more potent. Dr. Sanford has now checked this hypothesis with sun-spot records for fifteen years.

EARTH AND VENUS

Earth and Venus move in different orbits. Sometimes they are on the same side of the sun, sometimes on opposite sides and sometimes half-way between. Dr. Sanford checked the sun-spot phenomena on the visible side of the disc for all these planetary positions. He found that the sun-spottedness on the terrestrial side was approximately 99 per cent. greater when Venus was on the opposite side of the sun than when she was on the same side as the earth. When the two planets were at 90 degree angles from each other, a condition which obtained 20 times during the 15 years, the sun-spottedness was about half-way between the two extremes.

"It would appear from these results," Dr. Sanford concludes, "that the influence of Venus on visible sun-spottedness is much greater when the planet is on the opposite side of the sun from the earth than when it is on the same side. The apparent effect of Venus on sun-spots is to repel them to the farthest side of the sun. The phenomena observed by Mrs. Maunder indicate that the earth also repels sun-spots to the farther side of the sun."

SUN-SPOTS

Dr. Sanford points out, there can be little doubt that sun-spots are highly electrified. They are great masses of rotating gases, each mass thousands of miles in radius, in the atmosphere of the solar disc. If these inner planets are similarly electrified, it would explain the repulsion.

Dr. Sanford previously concluded that the sun, earth and moon all are negatively electrified. He considers it a fair assumption that the other planets are similarly negatively charged. The proximity of such a negatively charged body would tend to kick the negatively charged rotating mass of gas to the opposite side of the sun, the strength of the kick depending on the size and nearness of the planet. On this basis, Venus would be expected to have the greatest electrical kick of all, owing to its mass and position.

THIS HEROIN BUSINESS

Thanks to the publicity being accorded to the subject, there are indications that public opinion is being aroused concerning the necessity of drastic measures being taken in this Colony for the suppression of the heroin-pill traffic. The Government, also, is moving in the matter, principally along the lines of propaganda stressing the devastating effects of the drug on users and exposing the mischievous and totally unfounded belief being put into circulation that heroin is a cure for venereal diseases. The prospect of heavier sentences on those actually caught engaged in the manufacture of pills is also envisaged. Heroin for use by drug addicts is by no means new in the Far East. It first came into notice in Shanghai some fourteen or fifteen years ago, and in Hongkong some three years later. But the popularity of heroin-pills is of comparatively recent growth, particularly in Hongkong. In this connection, it may be noted that in 1931 the total seizures in Hongkong were only 5,000 pills; last year, the figure had grown to the amazing total of approximately 600,000, plus a sufficient quantity of the drug to manufacture at least the same number of pills. This tremendous increase, however, will, it is believed, pale into insignificance when the figures for the first half of the current year are disclosed. Factors which have materially assisted in the expansion of the traffic are that heroin is favoured by reason of its greater convenience in use when compared with opium; that it is cleaner, and does not stain nor induce foul breath, as is the case with opium; that it is cheaper, from twenty to forty cents' worth of pills serving the purpose of approximately fifty to sixty cents' worth of opium; and that the pills are easily concealed, five hundred of them weighing only about four and a half ounces. Pill-smoking is the most common form of indulgence, although instances have been discovered in which the addicts dip the ends of cigarettes in the powdered drug and thus inhale the fumes. So far as the actual manufacture of the pills is concerned, no expensive plant or equipment is needed, it being calculated that a factory can be started by an outlay of from $500 to $1,000. As we have previously pointed out, the extreme mobility of these factories operates against easy detection, and it is obvious that although seizures are increasing almost daily they represent but a small proportion of the pills or drug in circulation. The tracking down of agents and of others behind the scenes is also extremely difficult. There is a belief current that the heads of the organisation compensate those engaged in the traffic who may happen to be caught and fined; also that they see to the welfare of the relatives of convicted persons during the period of the latter's incarceration in gaol. If this is so, one useful means which might be employed for the purpose of tracking down those behind the trade would seem to be to keep in contact with the families of imprisoned men, with a view to discovering if possible, the source of their newly-found wealth. Whilst it is believed that there is not a very heavy export of pills from Hongkong at present, unless drastic measures are taken to stamp out the evil, the Colony may in course of time become a big manufacturing and distributing centre, thereby attracting undesirable worldwide attention. Apart from the manufacture of pills, there are numbers of divans in the Colony in which the heroin habit may be indulged, but addicts discovered on such premises are not prosecuted, the principal tenant being proceeded against for possession or for permitting the premises being used as a divan. Heavier sentences, including caning, would appear to be advisable, and, in addition, a big step in the direction of suppressing the evil would be the making of heroin-smoking illegal. In a matter of this kind, nothing short of the most rigorous action will be of avail. The authorities, by so proceeding, would save the Colony from a dreadful scourge and from a most unsavoury reputation which it cannot afford to earn.

Egypt has set this Example to Hongkong.

"Every day, stories of the smuggling or seizure of enormous quantities of narcotics are more conspicuous in our papers; every day, China and our own small Colony are being flooded with potential destruction; and every day, men and women are being taught deliberately to crave for themselves a living death, and for their children to prepare a future of moral and physical destruction."

ages of twenty and forty

THE book is one which should be read and re-read for many reasons.

In the first place it is more thrilling than any "thriller" and more entertaining and fuller of human interest than most novels. Its second and more profound appeal is to the man who thinks enough to realize what the drug traffic means in terms of human life and happiness.

Many may ask "Am I my brother's keeper?", but if they will read this book, the answer will be, "Yes—for it is in my own interest too!"

To those in Hongkong and the Far East, particularly to those who are responsible for the well-being of those whose lives they govern, it has a most vital importance.

Every day stories of the smuggling or seizure of enormous quantities of narcotics are more conspicuous in our papers; every day China and our own small Colony are being flooded with potential destruction; and every day men and women are being taught deliberately to crave for themselves a living death, and for their children to prepare a future of moral and physical destruction.

Money that is so hard to earn is spent on vain efforts to satisfy an insatiable desire, and to get the money the addict will stop at nothing. The slow death by hunger of his children is of less importance to him than a short respite from his ceaseless torture.

Even that rather torpid and hardly-roused body, the League of Nations, was moved by Russell Pasha, who in a simple and direct appeal called for its help. "FIRST NIGHT," ON BEHALF OF HONGKONG LISTENERS, WRITES
AN OPEN LETTER

To The Hongkong Government And, More Particularly,
To The Hongkong Broadcasting Committee

A PLEA FOR A FAIR DEAL IN BROADCASTING

GENTLEMEN:

This Page and its readers do not consider that you are giving Hongkong listeners a Fair Deal.

Your bargain with the 5,800 licensed listeners in the Colony is a one-sided one.

Each of these 5,800 people have contracted to pay you $12 per annum in return for your programmes. Paying this huge total, naturally, will not cause rejoicing among 5,800 inhabitants of this Colony unless you can give them something approaching value in return.

Do you consider that ZBW programmes for the past twelve months were, in entertainment value, fair return for your customers' cash? Are listeners any better off than they were when you took control of Broadcasting in 1929?

I admit that, since those "early" days of broadcasting in Hongkong, ZBW has improved, despite the fact that some listeners believe that it has deteriorated, and despite the fact that more complaints are pouring into newspapers about the monotony and the anaemic quality of programmes than ever before.

But! Five years ago your revenue from Broadcast Licences was only $17,880. Two years ago it was only $32,780. This year you already have 5,800 listeners. They are paying $12 per annum each instead of the $10 you formerly imposed. In two years your revenue from licences has doubled. In five years it has quadrupled.

THAT SHORT-WAVER

True, you can point with pride to the fact that you have built a new transmitter, and have under construction a 3½ kilowatt set that will reach to all parts of the world. Doubtless Sir Hubert Wilkins, as he makes his dash under the ice to the North Pole, will be overjoyed to hear the "Voice of Hongkong" broadcasting mid-summer greetings from the tropics. But your Hongkong listener would be far happier if you'd cut off three of those kilowatts. He wants better programmes in Hongkong.

You may also point with pride to the fact that you have built a new transmitter, and have under construction a 3½ kilowatt set that will reach to all parts of the world. Doubtless Sir Hubert Wilkins, as he makes his dash under the ice to the North Pole, will be overjoyed to hear the "Voice of Hongkong" broadcasting mid-summer greetings from the tropics. But your Hongkong listener would be far happier if you'd cut off three of those kilowatts. He wants better programmes in Hongkong.

Another matter for self-congratulation, doubtless, is that you have so assiduously cultivated the "Bo-British" attitude. Your announcers may not employ the faultless pronunciation of one of their B.B.C. contemporaries, but we all must admit that they provide a model of decorum.

Your "Model B.B.C." attitude even extends to the creation of an omnipotent official, you having forgotten, no doubt, that while listeners in Hongkong can turn to dozens of Continental stations, your monopoly here is absolute, unless we include the squeaks and squawks of average short wave reception as "Entertainment".

You have done all these things.

BUT YOU HAVE NOT GIVEN US BETTER PROGRAMMES!

Many listeners blame your Programme Secretary and staff for this state of affairs. That is unfair. They have done comparatively well within the limits under which they must necessarily work.

YOU ARE TO BLAME

It is you, originally appointed by the Government to look after our interests, who are the Directors who would the policy of this business of Broadcasting, and it is you who must take the blame and criticism when anything goes wrong.

Broadcasting is a business, just as is selling shoe-laces or sausages. If the tailors of the shoe-lace or sausage factories find that something is wrong with their Sales Departments, or hear a swelling tide of adverse rumours about the quality of their products, they send for a remedy. If they don't do so, they soon go out of business or, in the case of a Board of Directors, are replaced by the shareholders by a more aggressive Board. Shareholders usually have that privilege.

"GIVE US WHAT WE WANT OR—"

But we, shareholders in ZBW, have no voice in the creation of our own Board of Directors. We cannot go to you and say (unless it be in an Open Letter such as this), "Give us what we want, or make way for someone who will."

We have no representation on your Committee. We have even discovered

THE KING BROADCASTS TO-MORROW

TWO important relays scheduled from ZBW this weekend.

To-night, you'll hear commentary and results of first two singles matches in Challenge (Australia v. England) for Davis Cup, and of England v. India Test Match. Commentaries will be from 9.30 to 9.45 p.m. H.K.T. (If you want more time to Daventry direct) and results will be broadcast from 11.30 to 11.45 p.m. H.K.T.

Second ZBW relay from Daventry is most important, since H.M. King made his Accesalon Broadcast. Ban Old British Pictures In Hongkong

SUGGESTS "FIRST NIGHT"

THAT British film producers and distributors regard Hongkong as one of their vital markets is evident by the fact that four questions were asked in the House of Commons on Wednesday relative to the absence of British pictures in this Colony.

One Member of Parliament urged a special registration tax on foreign films, analogous to the present tax on motor vehicles.

Another politician suggested compulsory exhibition of 20 per cent. British films at each performance.

Heaven forbid that either suggestion be adopted.

You may rest assured that additional taxes on foreign films will not be paid by the American distributor or the Hongkong exhibitor. It will be passed on to you, already more than fairly taxed for your entertainment.

But even that would be preferable to the suggested compulsory exhibition of 20 per cent. British films with each programme. I have seen that scheme tried elsewhere. It benefited nobody but small "quickie" studios, which turned out the most horrible trash that passed as quota films.

Do not imagine for one moment that a 20 per cent. British quota would bring you British feature films. It would mean that the present Pete Smith's, the Mickey Mouse, Silly Symphonies and American gazettes would be substituted by British "shorts".

We all want to see more British films in Hongkong. Many great pictures have been turned out of British studios in recent years. But we have got to confess that Britain has not yet turned seriously to the all-important subject of short fill-ups for the main features.

There is such a paucity of British "shorts" that most of the distributors (notably London films) must turn to America to fill-up their programmes.

This Page has been a consistent supporter of British films, and believes that its constant advocacy of Empire products in no small measure influenced the recent decision of the King's Theatre to show at least one British film each month.

KING'S EXPERIMENT

The King's Theatre has expressed satisfaction with the results it has gained from this experiment, so much so, in fact, that British films have almost predominated in its programmes during the past six weeks.

The success attending the experiment at the King's Theatre shows that British films can stand on their own feet, and can even out-rival American products with organised distribution. Therein lies the story of the failure of British pictures to adequately penetrate the local market during the past two years.

It is a strange anomaly that hitherto the distribution of major British films has been left almost entirely in the hands of American distributors.

This policy has been somewhat modified in recent months, and several British producers now have direct representation in this Colony.

Those producers must support their new Hongkong distributors. To insist, as one American company did, with disastrous results when it first entered the Hongkong market, that all previous films, no matter their "age", must be exhibited before modern films are released, would ruin this market.

CUT THE LOSS

Far better to cut the loss on films that are over 12 months old, and start off on par with the Americans.

To release "Man of Aran" at a first-run house in this late date was a mistake—a mistake intensified by the fact that the accompanying News-Real was out showing the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Kent!

I believe that British film producers can capture the British market without Government intervention, provided they go about it in the right way.

If British producers won't help their Hongkong distributors, however, and Government intervention on behalf of British films becomes necessary, let Government by all means insist that at least twenty per cent of the feature programmes exhibited in this Colony be British.

But if Government takes this step, it must protect the Hongkong public, and at the same time the British producer, by banning from Hongkong houses all British films that are over 12 months old.

NEW FILMS

THE WEEK-END YOU'VE ALWAYS DREAMT ABOUT HAS ARRIVED

THIS is a week-end of superlative entertainment at both first and second run houses. It is a long time—certainly not this summer—since this Page has been able to wax enthusiastic about entertainment in general.

You can take your pick of four absolutely first class new pictures and of three equally good second and third runs.

Among the first runs, if you want something light, choose "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town", at the Alhambra.

If you want powerful drama of the type that makes you remember a picture for a long time, choose "Fury", which ends its first run at the King's to-day.

If you want the polished acting of the type that wins the Academy of Arts prize for best performances, coupled with everything that is top-notch in motion picture entertainment, make "Dangerous" at the Queen's your choice.

If you want to see one of the best British films shown in Hongkong this year, book your seats for "Thirty-nine Steps" at the King's to-morrow.

My advice is to make this a week-end of sheer happiness by seeing as many of these pictures as you can.

Or, if you are a second-run fan, and prefer to see the above when they come to the smaller theatres, see either "Captain Blood" at the Star, "Frisco Kid" at the Oriental, or "Robin Hood of El Dorado" at the Oriental to-morrow.

Have you ever sent a representative to one of these concerts sponsored by Services social committees? You'd be surprised at the wealth of talent. Don't you think you could award a teen-weeny prize for a local studio play?

Have you ever considered the oft-repeated plea (by dozens of listeners and by all the dealers) for more programmes? You have done none of these things. Therefore you should allow some fresh blood to be injected into the somewhat moribund Hongkong Broadcasting Committee.

Naming a child is a problem, so is Naming a HORSE

IT is sometimes said that "madmen name racehorses," but actually this problem, and it is often a real problem, receives very careful thought.

Tom, Dick, or Harry may be good enough for an owner's son, but his horses' names must be more carefully chosen, and many a thoroughbred testifies in its name to its owner's wit.

The name should reflect those of both the sire (father) and dam (mother), and must be original.

The Turf's most famous names can never be used again, and even the least successful thoroughbred cannot have its name duplicated during its lifetime.

These unofficial rules, of course, are not always followed, and a horse may be given a name for any, or no, particular reason.

Ballywellbroke

The Aga Khan, for instance, is fond of Eastern place-names for his string.

Abyssinia was one name registered last season, Put-and-take was another choice when that name was popular.

Where the "classic" practice is followed of playing on the names of the horse's sire and dam the cleverest and most attractive names are possible.

The late King Edward named one of his string Rainfall. It was sired by Cleyd out of Doluge.

Bookers will sympathise with the man who bit on the name Ballywellbroke, by Ballyferdy out of The Beggar, and it was surely a Londoner who named a chestnut colt, by Duke of Buckingham out of Aviary, Birdcage Walk.

Lawyer's Choice

A lawyer decided on Barrister, by Legatee out of Lead On.

Cuthbertson—by Winalot out of Grind Bridge; Cornered—by Son-in-Law out of Comedy Star (the playwright's choice?); and Devastation—by Cyclonic out of Helen's Trail—are other clever names of horses now in training.

Probably the best of all is Mr. Crim Ewing's Mrs. Grundy—by Edinburgh out of Bachelor's Fun!

"Frank" names cause a great deal of confusion, but when it comes to calling the odds even more amusement.

An Irish Jumper recently run in this country is called Niedergonderhausen.

Wrongun

Sir F. Towle owns Airhead Sios. This is correctly pronounced, roughly, Ar-roo-doo Shee-is.

The bookmakers, all but the Scots, call it Aged Hagris.

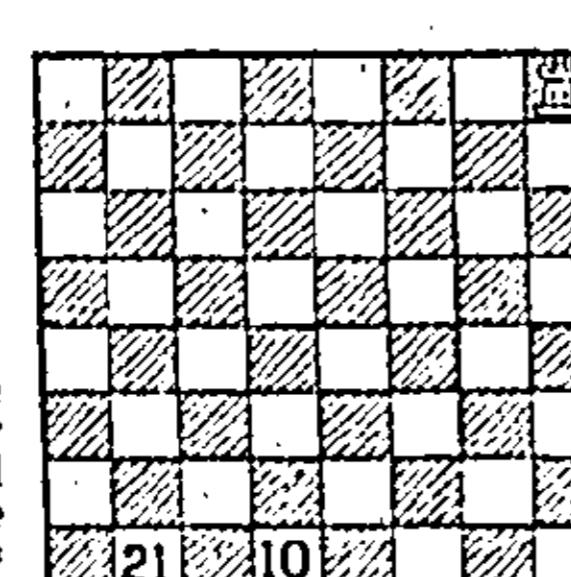

The Aga Khan's Badru'l-Mulk is popularly known as Bad Egg and Milk.

Two horses owned by Mr. H. T. Hincks lived up to their names and gave the Nottingham crowd a good laugh a year ago.

Wrongun, after falling and unseating his jockey, continued with the rest of the field, and finished up by jumping over the enclosure rails and scattering the crowd.

The same afternoon Righton won the Jollerton Handicap Steeplechase.

Try your brain on this one

THE illustration represents a chess-board with a rook (chess players' slang for castle) in one corner. It is going to make a journey and is rather perplexed about it.

The rook here makes twenty-one moves, in the course of which journey it visits every square of the board once, and once only, stopping at the square marked 10 at the end of its tenth move and ending at the square marked 21.

Two consecutive moves cannot be made in the same direction, that is to say, you must make a turn after every move. A rook can only be moved vertically or horizontally.

Answer on Page 9.

Snuff has also a reputation for being beneficial to the eyes and the nervous system.

Napoleon's favourite snuff was violet-scented. His aide-de-camp reported in his account of Waterloo that Napoleon, all through the battle, continually dipped into his snuff-box and hurried away at the end with his head drooping over it.

John Hardham, the most famous snuff-maker of all, who supplied expensive snuffs to Edward Gibbon, David Garrick, Joshua Reynolds, and the other notabilities of the eighteenth century, from his shop in Fleet-street, made a fortune during his life-time.

It still remains a wealthy trade, though the romance which once surrounded it has gone.

A modern snuff-mill turns out packets of snuff at more than one hundred a minute—to sell for a few pence each. Yet only three years ago the will of a Sheffield snuff-maker disclosed a fortune of more than £300,000.

Cheap water facilities made Sheffield the centre of the snuff-making trade in 1760. It still holds that position.

More Snuff is taken to-day

SNUFF may never regain its old glory, but the figures show that the habit of snuff-taking is becoming increasingly popular with men—and women.

In the last ten years the consumption has almost doubled; nearly one million pounds of snuff are now being consumed each year. It is a powdered preparation of tobacco.

Influenza epidemics send up the snuff sales figures. Many snuff-takers can boast of never having had a cold, and in the largest Sheffield snuff mill none of the employees has ever suffered from influenza.

But a month or two ago a club for snuff-takers was unable to hold its regular meetings as half its members were down with "flu."

Dear Kiddies,

Most of you found it more difficult to paint bird than flowers; didn't you? None the less, there were some excellent efforts sent in by the Seniors, in which section the prize goes to Pauline Abbott (aged 13), 361 The Peak, for a beautiful study of a flamingo. Others who came near winning were Maisie Law (robin), Vivienne Churn and Isobel Morrison (kingfishers), and Marlie Xavier (yellow-hammer). In the Junior Section, lots of kiddies got the names correctly, but the best effort was that of Kathleen Morrison (aged 7), 7 East Block, Queen's Road.

Will Pauline and Kathleen call at the "Telegraph" office for their prizes?

Commended, for good work, in addition to the seniors already named, are Fernando Alves, Zuleima Ribeiro, Elsa Laurel, Marjorie Tod and Gloria Gomez among the Seniors; and Shiek Dawood Bux, Binoy Deb, Tony Xavier, Violetta dos Remedios, Charlu Churn, Ricardo Malig, Leslie Giles, Nidia Laurel and Baby Soares among the Juniors.

This week, children, I am giving you another crossword competition. Most of the clues are about the story of Cinderella, which, of course, you all know. No colouring is needed. There will again be two prizes—one for kiddies from 10 to 14, and the other for those under 10. Neatness, age and correctness will be taken into account in awarding the prizes. Entries must be addressed to Uncle Eddie, e/o "Hongkong Telegraph," and must reach him not later than 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

Uncle Eddie.

How Colony Cares For Its Juvenile Wrong-doers

A VISIT TO THE REMAND HOME FOR BOYS

"Telegraph" Staff Reporter

If you are ever bored with your work, disillusioned about life or temporarily depressed with the futility of things in general, here is the tonic.

All the boys sent to the Remand Home come from the Juvenile Court, either on being sentenced (for purposes of discipline) or for enquiries regarding their parentage, etc. The Home is housed in the building which was for many years the Bellios Reformatory.

Take the No. 5 bus down to Causeway Bay and spend an hour at the Remand Home for Male Juveniles where about 50 youngsters are serving their "sentences". A talk with the genial supervisor, Mr. C. P. Fallon, and a round of the buildings watching the boys at work and play will convince you that here at least is an institution which is doing a worth-while job.

Part of the fascination of the place is bound up with the personality of Mr. Fallon. He is enthusiastic about the high-walled-in acre or so where he spends 24 hours of his day. Furthermore, the boys reciprocate by a willing respect and discipline which makes Wards and locks unnecessary.

The entrance to the Home is somewhat forbidding. High white walls run completely round the building which stands just above the French Hospital. A policeman is on duty at the gate, which is locked as soon as you enter. After that you leave the prison atmosphere outside and enter a place to which many of the youngsters is a luxury they are loth to leave.

I signed the visitors' book. I was the 160th in the last 16 months. In reply to my query, Mr. Fallon explained that all parents and boys' friends, Y.M.C.A. lecturers and probation officers entered their names. Nobody visits the Home for philanthropic purposes only.

As Mr. Fallon said: "What could they do? The Government supplies everything and visitors could do nothing for the boys."

We should be glad if the public took an interest in our rattan work, though. They could come any afternoon and buy or order articles."

RATTAN SHOP

He took me along to the rattan shop. A dozen youngsters under an instructor were busily and quietly weaving rattan into baskets and mats. They were clean and appeared contented.

"We don't put anybody here with a sentence less than three months," said the supervisor. "It takes a conscientious boy that long to learn the trade. All these boys in the rattan shop are up for larceny."

"Look at that youngster. He is no more than 11 years old, well-educated, son of rich parents and of a superior class altogether. He simply won't stay home. He doesn't like his step-mother, so he runs away and gets into trouble. When he comes here he is absolutely tractable and willing. Step-mothers are as great trouble here as they are at Home in England!"

THE CLASSROOM

We went along to the class room from which the sound of ringing young voices chanting Chinese had been coming for some time.

A youngster stood beside a blackboard on which a Chinese lesson was written and as he moved the pointer up and down, the class of seventeen followed him about. It was an elementary lesson about a large house which was for rent.

The boys sat at a little desk each, but as the supervisor came in and shouted "Attention!" they stood up smartly.

The supervisor explained that the boy at the blackboard knew all the characters and he was taking the lesson. The Chinese constable in the room was the real instructor, but the boys get a great kick from airing their knowledge to their less-informed school mates.

"This little chap leaves to-morrow," he said, pointing to a sturdy boy with a nice open face and clear skin. "He was one of the trouble-makers when he got into trouble fighting another boy. When he came here he knew nothing, but now he knows all the characters and is the smartest boy in the school. Only nine years old. He goes out to-morrow, but I shall have him back again, I expect."

THEY RETURN

When the boy has parents or relatives who send him to them after he has finished his term with us, but they often get into trouble and return. When parents can do nothing with them, or if they have no parents, they generally go to the Aberdeen Industrial School where they are well looked after until they are grown up. We can only take 50 boys here and they must be between seven and 16 years of age, English reckoning. At Aberdeen they are over that age."

The class was instructed to proceed and the voices rose again to the polter went over the blackboard. The boys were quite interested in their work and, remembering how I used to enjoy the pause when a visitor to the class room always brought a gift, I felt they were somewhat unappreciative of my gift.

"There's a chap who is hopeless. He will finish up in Aberdeen, I expect," said the supervisor pointing to quite a nervous-looking youth of 14 or so. "The fellow next him is one of the Fei Kai or 'Flying Squad'. He used to smuggle tobacco and made 30 or 40 steamer trips before he was caught—hence the name."

WASHING DAY

Outside the class-room fluttered an array of garments hung up to dry.

Big Flying Boat Is Coming to Hongkong

17-TON MONSTER HAS TAKEN TO THE AIR

"Telegraph" Special Representative

I UNDERSTAND that Imperial Airways will substitute one of the giant 17-ton, 24-passenger flying boats on the Singapore-Hongkong service within six months.

This decision has been arrived at, I understand, in view of the possibility that first-class mail will be carried throughout the Empire by air mail in the near future.

The first of Imperial Airways' 28 new flying boats has already taken to the air.

A trial flight was made at Rochester on July 4, reports by this week's air mail indicating that the take-off, handling of the machine whilst in the air and landing being extremely satisfactory.

This Imperial Airways machine, the first of the new fleet, is the largest flying boat in the world.

It has four engines, weighs 17 tons, and is equipped to carry 24 passengers by day and sleep 16 by night, while travelling at a top speed of 200 miles-an-hour. It can also carry about three tons of mail, much more than at present enters Hongkong by steamer.

When the new fleet is completed, the flying boats will be operated on practically every Imperial Airways oversea service.

FIVE DAYS TO CROYDON

A bi-weekly service from Croydon to the Cape will bring South Africa to within four days of London.

A bi-weekly service to Australia will reduce the transit time half way round the world to seven days.

Passengers will be able to journey from India to England in about four days and from Singapore to England in four days.

You will be able to travel from Hongkong to London in five days in more comfort than you could obtain on a train.

It is probable that Hongkong will see the first of the new flying boats on an experimental flight in December.

The boat is undergoing its trials this week, the preliminary flight being an unofficial one.

Immediately after the trials it will be handed over to Imperial Airways by Messrs. Short Bros. and will then leave on an experimental flight to the Mediterranean. Other experimental flights to more distant centres, including Hongkong, will be made at later date.

YOLA AND PAUL Farewell Appearance At Grips To-night

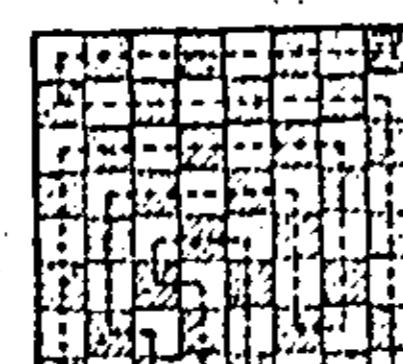

Hongkong's faltering reception of Yola and Paul on their return appearance at the Hongkong Hotel last Saturday night prompted these two favourites to stay over in this colony for another night.

As a result, dance-goers will have an opportunity again to-night to see these master eccentric dancers in action in entirely new numbers.

Dinner dances are proving remarkably popular at the Hongkong Hotel this summer, despite the heat, and with the additional attraction to-night of Yola and Paul, there should be heavy bookings.

In addition to to-night's appearances, Yola and Paul have been booked by the Hongkong Hotel Management to appear at a Special Tea Dance to be held in the Roof Garden here instead of being pensioned off!"

SOLUTION

The illustration here shows how the rook did its journey on Page 3 of the Supplement. You will find that the tenth move brings him on square 10, and it ends on square 21.

Make-Up

STAR the make-up secrets of the screen stars revealed and illustrated! Learn how facial contours may be changed by applying rouge in different ways... A round face appears more oval, a thin face takes on fullness. Even hollow cheeks seem to vanish. See why and how color harmony make-up accentuates beauty naturally.

Youthful and expressive hands should not be confined to the Dietrichs, Garbos and Crawfords. They are every woman's birthright. Just a little care and attention is all that is necessary to have lovely hands.

Let us assume that your hands are run-down. What steps can we take to bring them up to par? First of all, the skin is probably roughened and cracked. Here's a treatment that will banish that in no time at all. At night, after you've washed your hands in warm water, massage a liberal portion of a skin and tissue cream into them. Without removing the cream, slip on a pair of loose gloves for the night. The inexpensive white cotton gloves worn by painters and carpenters will do splendidly. The cream will work its way down into the cracks of the skin and nourish the oil glands which have been dried out by too much water. Several treatments like this will show miraculous results.

Secondly, perhaps your hands have become reddened. A bleach mask will fix that. Yes, the same preparation which you use on your face to lighten freckles and make your complexion even in tone. Use it about twice a week until you've whitened the skin sufficiently. Then just once a week will be enough.

Now that your hands are soft and white, it's your business to keep them that way. Hand lotion is just the thing. Have a bottle of it handy and massage a few drops of it into your hands every time they come into contact with water. You'll never be without it!

Behind each Max Factor product stands a guarantee of PURITY PROTECTION. That is the reason 96% of screen stars use it exclusively.

AT
TRIAL

Los Angeles, July 16. IN court here to-day a scientist plunged his hand into the jaws of two rattlesnakes and extracted poison. Then with a hypodermic syringe he injected the venom into two guinea-pigs, and the court watched them die.

This drama was enacted at the trial of Robert S. James, the red-headed "Bluebeard barber," accused of murdering his fifth wife, Mary Emma Busch James, aged 28.

District Attorney Fitts, who is conducting the prosecution, places his main reliance on the rattlesnakes.

One of them is 4 ft. and the other 6 ft. in length, and according to testimony are the identical snakes used by James to procure his wife's death so that he might collect £1,000 insurance money.

IN SNAKES' JAWS

The district attorney had carefully rehearsed the court scene. In the presence of Dr. Gustav Boehme, toxicologist, and of three men from "Snaky Joe's" reptile farm, he had the snakes lifted from the pall and clamped down.

Into their distended jaws Dr. Boehme thrust a gloved hand, seized and "milked" the exposed fangs of their venom.

Attorney Fitts then asked the three men from the reptile farm: "Do you know the two snakes, which on Sunday, July 29, 1935, were purchased from you by Charles H. Hope, known as 'Sailor Chuck' Hope, and which were returned to your farm the following Sunday by Hope, who demanded refund of the sales price on the ground that their poison sacs had gone dry?"

The three men solemnly affirmed: "We do."

Attorney Fitts then proceeded:

"Do you know them to be the same snakes mentioned in the indictment, which charges that Robert S. James—or Major Lisenba, by true name—did on Sunday, August 4, 1935, in the kitchen of his home at La Canada, Los Angeles, bind and gag Mary Emma Busch James, and with the help of Charles Hope then force her bare left foot into a pall containing the snakes and hold her in this position until the snakes had buried their fangs in her toes and propelled their venom into her bloodstream?"

Again, the three men chorused, "We do."

SYRINGE INJECTION

Photographers snapped the scene. A man stepped forward with a guinea-pig. Dr. Boehme filled a hypodermic syringe with opalescent juice from one of the snakes, drove the point into the guinea-pig's thigh, pressed the plunger of the syringe. The guinea-pig died. Venom from snake No. 2 then caused the death of a second guinea-pig.

The action of the District Attorney was prompted by the legal necessity of proving to judge and jury that the bite of rattlesnake is fatal.

Even with this proof forthcoming his case is not complete; he has to meet the ingenious defense of James, who proposes to testify that the subjection of his wife to snake-bites was not actuated by murderous intent, but was done at her request because

PLEA TO STOP A
DIVORCEJUDGE ON THE RIGHTS OF THE
"WOMAN NAMED"

AN important ruling on the rights of the "woman named" during divorce proceedings was given in the Divorce Court recently by Mr. Justice Bucknill.

The identity of the woman was not disclosed the case being in the list under initials only.

She claimed that under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1925, she had a right, as a member of the public, to cause why a decree nisi should not be made absolute; and the question whether she had such a right was argued as a point of law.

The respondent in the divorce suit, the husband, who was alleged to have committed adultery with the woman, applied to have her appearance in the case struck out; and his wife, the petitioner in the suit, associated herself with the application.

She believed that it would prevent the birth of a child.

The day after Mrs. James was found dead in a fish-pond with marks of snake-bites on her foot and with an apparently grieving widow weeping over her body, an impeded letter in her handwriting was found at her house.

She believed that it would prevent the birth of a child.

The Public Prosecutor will call as his most dangerous witness Charles Hope, the sailor who has already pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting James in the murder by procuring the snakes and assisting in exposing the woman's leg to their bites. This witness will be succeeded by an array of women who succumbed to the fascination of the "Bluebeard Barber."

James has denied the authorship of his various wives. To the police he has described the dead woman as his fifth wife; but to one alienist he referred to her as his sixth, and to another as his seventh. Struck out was accordingly dismissed.

"SOMETHING BIT ME"

It read:

Dear Sir,—Just a line to let you know I'm pretty sick. My leg is swollen. Something hit me this morning and I cut my toe yesterday. But my daddy will be home early to-night, and he takes such good care of me...

The Public Prosecutor will call as his most dangerous witness Charles Hope, the sailor who has already pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting James in the murder by procuring the snakes and assisting in exposing the woman's leg to their bites. This witness will be succeeded by an array of women who succumbed to the fascination of the "Bluebeard Barber."

"But," he continued, "it is a matter of public interest that a decree for dissolution of marriage should not be obtained on evidence which has been manufactured so as to indicate adultery where none has in fact taken place."

RIGHTS OF THE PUBLIC

A "woman named" did not become a party to the proceedings until she applied and obtained leave to intervene in the suit.

Mere service of the petition on her did not make her a party.

In this case she did not obtain such leave before the grant of the decree nisi; therefore she had not lost the right given to members of the public by law.

The husband's application to have the appearance of the woman named struck out was accordingly dismissed.

NATIONS TO DISCUSS CHINA

San Francisco, July 21.
THE situation created in the Far East by Japan's penetration and occupation of portions of China will be one of the leading questions discussed this year at the biennial session of the Institute of Pacific Relations.

The meeting will be held in Yosemite National Park from August 15 to 29.

It is expected from every point of view that the sessions will be the most important held since the Institute was established.

Every important country in or bordering on the Northern Pacific area will be represented by large delegations ranging from 25 to 35 members. The delegates will consist largely of important government officials, political leaders, university professors and leaders in the political, economic and intellectual life of the Pacific nations.

The countries participating in the convention will include China, Japan, the Philippines, Hawaii, Canada, Great Britain, Soviet Russia and the United States.

Although not strictly a Pacific country Great Britain will be allowed to participate because of the immensity of her interests in the Pacific and because of her dominions there.

SOVIET TO HELP

Unusual importance is attached to the meeting owing to the fact that this will be the first time that Soviet Russia has participated. Although the Soviet has established contact with the European nations through the League of Nations, this will be her first contact in an international convention of the Pacific countries.

The degree of importance in Pacific affairs due to her development towards the Pacific region and her relations with China and Japan, make her presence at the session one of unusual importance. It is believed by authorities back of the Institute that the biennial convention will thus permit of an open forum for a free discussion of all the problems that have been created by Russia's growing importance on the Pacific coast.

As regards Japan's penetration of China, it is understood the discussions of the convention will cover not only the creation of Manchukuo but also the present movement of Japanese troops into Tientsin, Peiping and towards the interior of China proper.

LEAGUE REPRESENTED

As in the past, the proceedings of the convention will be followed by an official observer of the League of Nations. This year Pierre de Lannux has been chosen for the task. Lannux first served as a member of the league secretariat at Geneva, but for the past ten years has been in charge of the League's branch office at Paris.

He has already made lecture tours of the United States and is a competent authority on Far Eastern and Pacific region questions.

While the League of Nations plays no part in the official work of the Institute of Pacific Relations, it keeps a close tab on all discussions for its own information and guidance when Far Eastern questions come before the league.

The presence of an official observer of the League of Nations at the convention is merely a part of the former's regular effort to co-ordinate all international efforts in so far as is possible for the attainment of the League's ends. It does not, however, intervene directly in the affairs of an autonomous organization.

TEST-SHOOT
FOR ARMY'S
NEW GUN

LEWIS BEATS BREN

Aldershot, July 15.
THE Bren, the new light automatic gun with which the troops are to be armed, was seen in action at Ash Vale. This automatic weapon is to supplant the Lewis gun.

The committee of the Aldershot Command Small Arms Meeting arranged that units armed with the new gun should compete alongside units using the Lewis.

The result was a surprise. The units armed with the Lewis made much higher scores.

It would be unfair to judge the Bren on one day's shooting. Units have done comparatively little shooting with the Bren. They will soon learn that they have a super-automatic weapon and when thoroughly mastered the standard of its performance will be greatly advanced. It was clear that for handiness, for getting quickly into action and for rapid magazine changing, it is incomparably the better weapon. These and other attributes make the new weapon far superior to the Lewis.

RAIN AGAIN SPOILS CRICKET

KENT'S LUCKY ESCAPE

SPLENDID NOTTS PARTNERSHIP

London, July 24.
County cricket was again spoilt by rain during the last three days and only one match finished with a definite result, Surrey beating Worcestershire by an innings. Notts gained a smart first innings success over Glamorgan thanks to a splendid second wicket partnership between Harris and Knowles, who added over 200 runs and each carried their bats for centuries.

Kent were in the toils against Warwickshire at Maidstone and rather luckily avoided defeat; they managed to secure first innings points, despite the fact that when atumps were drawn to-day they required 90 runs to win with only two wickets in hand.

A Canadian XI visiting England engaged a M.C.C. team. The match, owing to rain, was resolved into a one-day encounter, the Canadians winning by 26. Carlton bowled well for them taking 5 for 32, the M.C.C. being dismissed for 95.

Detailed results and individual performances as cabled by Reuter, follow.

PERRY KEEPS FLAG FLYING

AUSTIN-CRAMM CLASSIC

(By H. S. Scrivenor)

London, July 2.

I will deal with the match between Perry and Budge (U.S.A.). First, though it actually came second, because in it Perry kept the flag of England flying after H. W. Austin, our stylist-in-chief, had fallen a victim to von Cramm, as great a stylist as himself.

I don't wish to blow the trumpet of Great Britain too loudly; but I feel bound nevertheless to say that Perry had the necessary stroke equipment for the beating of Budge and was only really embarrassed when he failed, often through being in too much of a hurry, to make use of it.

He is fully alive to the value of the volley, compared with the baseline shot, however immaculate, and seems to have an instinctive faculty, when a certain situation arises, for saying to himself, "Now for it!" and going up on a shot that will almost inevitably yield a winning volley unless anything happens to go wrong.

ANTICIPATING A VOLLEY

There were virtues in his play all through the match, and therefore we can afford to be a little blind to the faults in tactics and execution of which he was occasionally guilty.

Budge is a fine volleyer, and that is where Perry was wise in blocking his advances to the net by getting there first himself; if he could, but off the ground Budge is not as sure of himself as he needs to be when up against a variety artist like Perry.

As a matter of actual fact, Perry ought to have had the first set, which Budge eventually won at 7-5. After an early capture each way, which did not matter, Perry had the 5-3 lead against Budge's service; but then got into a tangle with his own, which he lost after making two brilliant saving shots. This settled his hash pre tem. Budge went out in

SNAGS OF THE NEW GOAL-KICK RULE

(By Ivan Sharpe)

Mark the difference in the attitude towards Scotland's new goal-kick system. This has been hurried through by the International Board when complications arose that suggested a wiser procedure would have been to wait a year and then do the job properly.

These are the facts: Scotland wanted to do away with those little skirmishes that arise at goal-kicks when the back tips the ball into the goalkeeper's hands and the latter punts it down the field.

The centre-forward challenges the back, holds him off, and there's a skirmish. So they said the ball must be kicked "direct into play." All right. But a direct kick of two yards by a goalkeeper to a back and a return tap to the goalkeeper for a punt out of his hands, would soon defeat that wording. Hence the Board decided the ball must travel "beyond the penalty area." If it doesn't, the kick "shall be re-taken."

FLAWS

So neither the faulty kick falling short, nor the kick intercepted in the penalty area, is any disadvantage to the defenders: it must be re-taken.

All this is Law Seven.

ALL DRESSED UP

Where the board have rushed things is that Law 10 could not be altered to coincide, as it wasn't on the agenda.

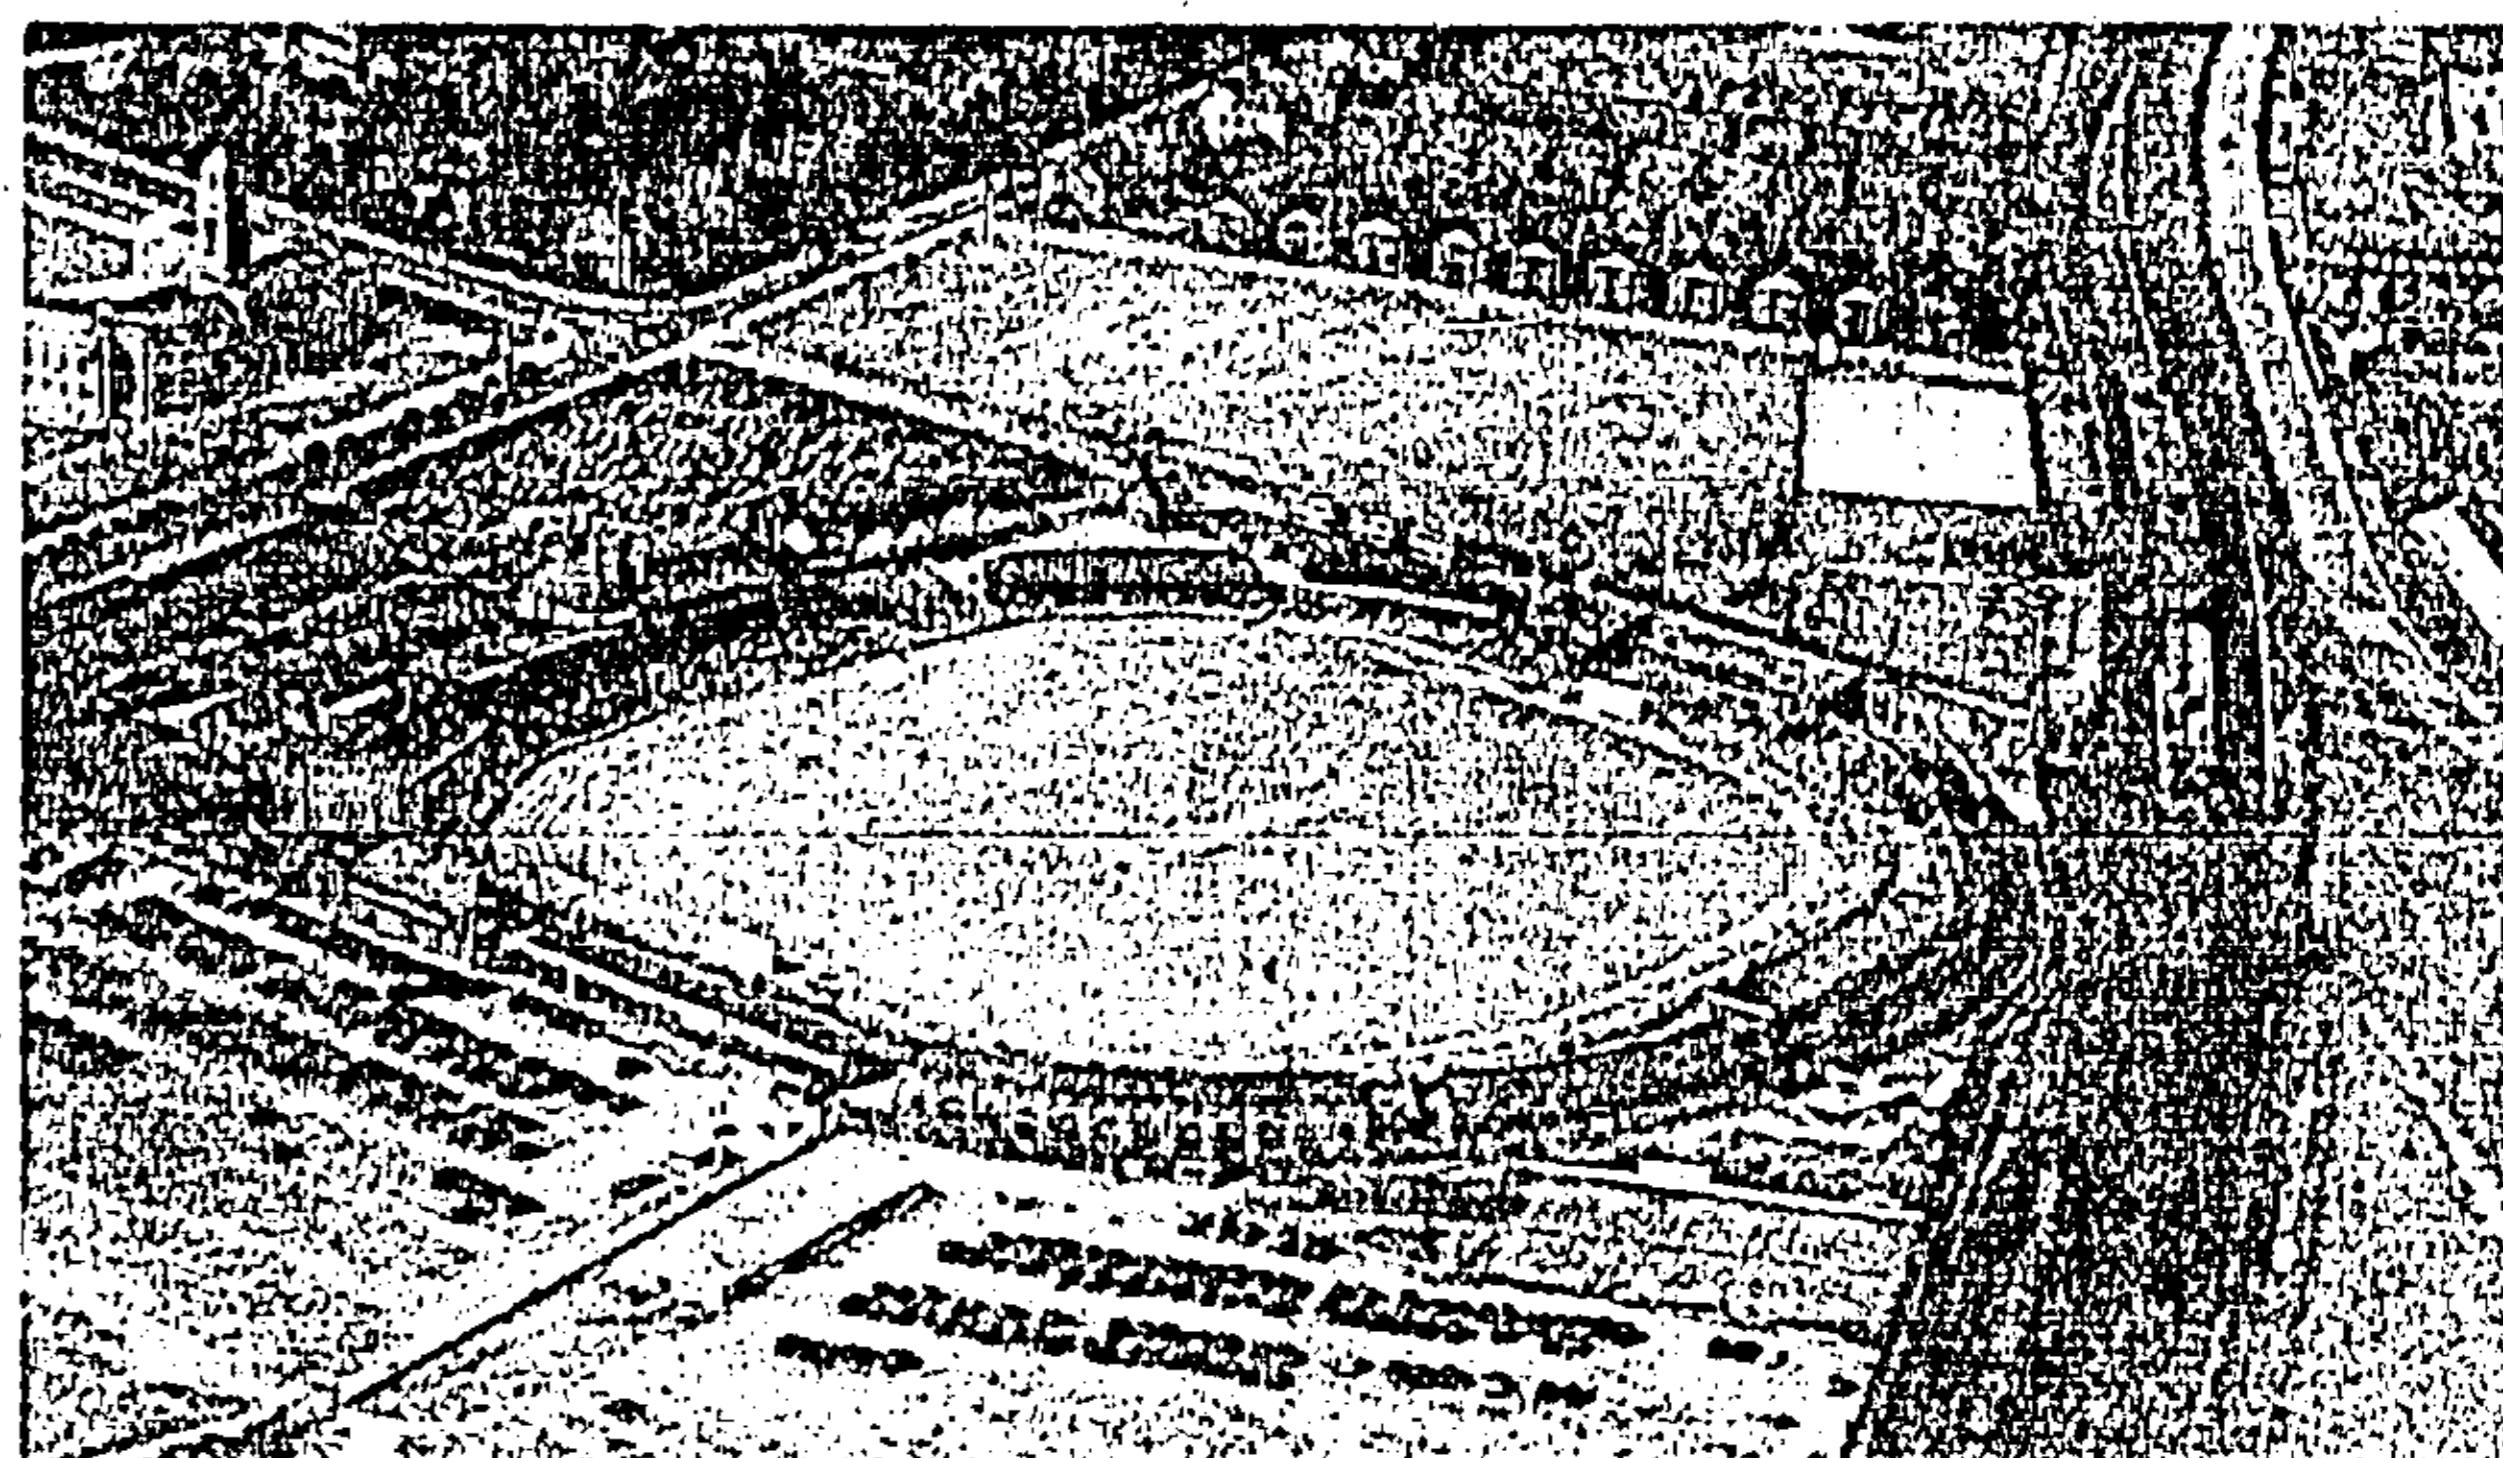

So all other free-kicks by defenders in the goal area or penalty area can be tapped into the goalkeeper's hands in the old familiar way, and the skirmishes renewed without interference by the referee, who is powerless.

The International Board therefore asks national associations to consider whether the new goal-kick principle shall apply to defenders' free-kicks throughout the penalty area.

Indeed, I hear that some request may be made to get out of the dilemma by requesting all footballers to accept this procedure by general consent.

Surely the law-makers aren't going to ask that no free-kick by a defender shall be accepted in the penalty-area! The players there will be all dressed up and nothing to do.

Perry Keeps Flag Flying At Wimbledon

the next three games, winning Perry's service to love for 6-5.

In the second set Perry changed his tactics somewhat, and, while never neglecting the chance of a sprint for the net, played his baseline rallies in a rather restrained fashion. He found that Budgie was making a good many errors (for him), and encouraged him, in a sense, to make them.

He went to 4-1, and ought to have been 5-1, but Budgie saved his service game from 0-40 and went for Perry tooth and nail, with the result that the Englishman found himself leading only by 5-4.

However, in the next game Budgie obligingly served two double faults, and Perry brought off a lovely backhand pass. The set was accordingly Perry's at 6-4, and we breathed again.

CRITICAL FOURTH SET

The third set was Perry's at 6-3, in spite of several fails which did not, however, appear to bother him. The winning of Budgie's service for 5-3 made him safe this time. But in the fourth set we found ourselves again more or less on tenterhooks. Budgie went to 2-0, and later to 4-2, and then Perry had two very opportune net-corders to help him to 3-4 against Budgie's service, and soon they were 4-4.

In winning Budgie's service again Perry had another net-corder, besides putting a beauty down the sideline, and also saw Budgie plop two into the net. Then came Perry's service, and with it the match by 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 to the sound of joyous and prolonged applause. They had been at it for about an hour and 35 minutes.

Before this, as I have indicated, von Cramm beat Austin by 8-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3. I think the score just about reflects the superiority of the winner, who all through the match played what was in reality the more powerful and more aggressive game.

MISTAKEN TACTICS

There is an old-fashioned saying to the effect that some people do not know on which side their bread is buttered. I am convinced that Austin would be an even greater player than he is if he would only realize that he is a born volleyer, whereas his baseline game, however fluent and fascinating it may appear to be, is nothing like as potent as one might think.

He hits the ball remarkably hard and yet does not seem able to plant it really deep. That is, perhaps, one of the reasons why he does not advance to the net more often; but whenever he succeeds in sending home a really adequate attacking shot, it does not always seem to occur to him to make the sprint for the net which is obviously indicated. Looking at yesterday's match as a whole, I regard him as barely a match for von Cramm in the baseline rallies, while the German got almost as many opportunities for volleying as he wanted because Austin hardly ever barred his way.

The first set was remarkable for the number of games which went against the service. Eventually von Cramm, having beaten Austin for 5-5, emerged with 6-5, and proceeded later to win Austin's service again for 8-6. In the second set Austin was lucky to win his service for 2-2. Von Cramm then won his service with the aid of a net-corder, and later won Austin's for 5-3, which he consolidated at 6-3 after Austin, striving valiantly, had been within a point of game.

The third set, in which von Cramm apparently took a breather and did not persevere after finding himself 4-1 down, was Austin's at 6-2. The fourth set was a bit of a toss-up at first while three games were going against the service, but after von Cramm had emerged with 3-1 lead, he held it to go out with the capture of another of Austin's service games at 6-3. I say without a very fine performance.

News, Reviews for FILM FANS

By "FIRST NIGHT"

YOU can stick a pin into the advertising columns of the "Telegraph" to-day, and wherever it comes out of a theatre advertisement you can be assured that there you'll find a top notch picture.

This is one of those rare week-ends, seldom experienced during the winter, practically never during the summer, which every picture house has chosen to release a film you can't help but enjoy.

At the King's, starting to-morrow, is one of the major British films about which we've heard so much, longed for so long. At the Queen's is the picture that raised Bette Davis the coveted Academy of Motion Picture Arts gold cup for the best acting in 1935.

At the Alhambra (tomorrow) is the most delightful film that young men, girls, everyone has ever turned out.

Below are brief reviews. Take your choice.

"39 STEPS"

Madeline Carroll,
Robert Donat
Queen's, Tomorrow

"The Thirty-Nine Steps," was written by John Buchan as the first of a series of stories told about a certain Canadian—one Richard Hannay, young man who quite accidentally finds himself in a whirlpool of incidents and difficulties through no fault of his own.

The yarn covers in the screen version a few in an East End music hall, an international female spy, a master criminal seeking British air defence plans, a wild pursuit in Scottish glens and highlands, in the mists and under the sprays. We are taken on exciting train journeys, into lonely Scottish inns, and spend a night in a bedroom with our hero and heroine under the oddest and most amusing conditions, handcuffed together, and mixing real love with pretence in the happiest way. We have as a grand finale a crazy show at the Palladium, in which tragedy appears as a novel happy ending.

Robert Donat has had a screen star one of the most meteoric rises from. In this he justifies the high hopes entertained from his initial success. The part he plays in this picture is full of opportunities. The story is comprehensively and vividly delivered. He plays opposite that radiant and unmatched beauty Madeline Carroll, whose faultless performance is itself invaluable. He meets hardly anybody in the cast who is not in some way gifted, certainly no one lacking in experience. Names like those of Lucie Mannheim, Peggy Ashcroft, Godfrey Tearle, and Frank Cellier will indicate the unusually fine support.

Although a woman spy is murdered near the beginning of this film, and although Robert Donat is hunted by the police for a murder which he did not commit, there is romantic comedy, and witty dialogue in this film, making it delightful entertainment.

Madeline Carroll and Robert Donat in a poignant incident from "The 39 Steps" showing to-morrow at the King's Theatre.

"DANGEROUS"

Franchot Tone,
Bette Davis
Queen's, Tomorrow

There can be no doubt of the fact that Tone is an actor. He has the sort of career that can do nothing new for me, as described in his own country. "Dangerous" knew; but when the high class they make him the most indolent critics acknowledge that choice for the lack of either his ability in this new archetypal twin drama, and Frank Capra film and call his need to design sky scrapers to reach society, his latest film "Dangerous," now at the Queen's.

Tone has had a succession of gaudily parts lately, and he never puts a foot wrong (although he may offend the legendary arbiters of fashion by wearing a bowler with a dinner suit).

But the picture which proves that intelligent writing and direction still make the best films, really belongs to Bette Davis. Miss Davis is the finest exponent on the screen of the not bad woman. She is a lawlessness unto herself. She is a wild and wilful one moment that she gives one grossflesh, and so fascinatingly and femininely feline the next that you don't give a damn.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences decided that her part of the actress, Joyce Heath, in "Dangerous" was the best of any screen actress in 1935.

I bow to the ruling of the academicians (without prejudice). Her acting in Maugham's "Of Human Bondage" was a promising prelude to this, and she was just beaten on the post for the Academy award in that year.

Miss Davis, slender, blonde, has not the kind of beauty which sends casting directors into a power-deliver when she has proved her acting ability on the stage and been given a film contract she sat round Hollywood for months with nothing to do except fret. George Arliss gave her a chance in "The Silent Voice" and since then she raced to stardom. "Dangerous" is a story about a siren, but she is no mythical creature commanding golden hair and laughing maliciously at the bleaching bones of her dead lover. Joyce Heath is as selfish as the devil, but she is human, at times appallingly so. She is an actress with a jinx, a ruiner of both men and producers.

"MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN"

Gary Cooper,
Jean Arthur
Alhambra, Tomorrow

Practise Gary Cooper as an actor, and he is a good one. He has the sort of career that can do nothing new for me, as described in his own country. "Dangerous" knew; but when the high class they make him the most indolent critics acknowledge that choice for the lack of either his ability in this new archetypal twin drama, and Frank Capra film and call his need to design sky scrapers to reach society, his latest film "Dangerous," now at the Queen's.

This, I consider, is one of the best films Gary has made. Gary, to any mind, is the real success, but then I do not share Hollywood's ecstatic evaluation of Mr. Capra's direction or the subjects he chooses. Anyway, I'm grateful to Frank Capra for proving Mr. Cooper to the sceptics and giving him a larger audience than he had before. Crowding theatres all over the world for weeks and weeks is no mean feat and it is largely the appeal of Mr. Cooper's acting that does it. He is a whimsical Vermonter who inherits millions and is exploited by New Yorkers until perplexed and disillusioned, he attempts to give away his fortune. His sanity questioned at a public trial, he wittily and shrewdly turns the tables on his enemies in the final courtroom scene since "Madame X."

Tone, caught in her net, puts up money for her new show. ("Do you mind your fingernails?" asks the canid producer. "No," says Tone. "You will," says the producer. And he does.) He breaks with his fiancee (Margaret Lindsay), heads for the rocks. And the curious and interesting thing is that the three main characters are behaving, not as film shadows, but as you and I do.

"Dangerous" is a grand film for the simple reason that it does not invite you to believe it; it makes you. And it is not a photographic stageplay but a moving picture, furiously native when necessary.

Girls' School on Record

ONE of the most devastating things that can happen to anyone is to take a friend to see your favourite comedian and find that your companion is completely unmoved.

I am risking this same humiliation by recommending to you a record by Arthur Marshall in the Columbia list. Marshall is billed only as "in his famous 'Schoolgirl Impressions'" not as a comedian. This is a little misleading because he is not a mimic or animal imitator as his billing might suggest, but, indeed, a great parodist.

Arthur Marshall, by profession a master at a famous public school, is known to the broadcasting public by his hit records in these monthly quick-fire revues that Nelson Keys used to play in before he died and got himself into a hit at the Saville Theatre. And if you remember those revues you will remember how Marshall created a whole gallery of fussy middle-aged women-bride playing, bazaar opening and school-teaching.

In his first record (Columbia DB 1640) he tells a superbly typical "School Girl's Story." You are not, I think, expected to laugh out loud at this, but it will give you plenty of chuckles and not let the opportunity to admire Arthur Marshall's school matron voice and his extraordinary accuracy of pitch and the style and matter of little school stories.

The other side, "The Head Mistress," is more satirical. The character is the Eternal Head (not necessarily only female), whose end of term addresses are full of team spirit and Empre-building and all the other fatuous clichés that schoolchildren have inflicted on them to make them appreciate their holidays the more.

Columbia must record many more of Arthur Marshall's studies of busy-ness.

JUNE, apart from all this, rules which is doing my garden now and of course has brought at least one other consolation for its unusual climatic behaviour. Elisabeth Schumann appears in the H.M.V. list with four songs that are really worth her singing.

All on one record, she has given up ballads and bird-songs, and instead sings four Brahms' songs (DA 1417, which costs 4s., and may therefore be considered to offer good value at a shilling per song).

Just how delightful the human voice can be Elisabeth Schumann demonstrates in her own way in this record. The songs are the "Wiegengesang," "Der Jäger," "Vergebliches Staedchen" and "Nachtlied."

For the benefit of those who recently heard no more of this season's "Rosencavalier" than was relayed on Whit-Monday there is available a recording of the trio and final duet from the last act.

This Decca-Polydor recording (CA 8230) includes Octavian, Thama Lemnitz, who made a great hit at Covent Garden in this part for a soprano who, during the course of the evening, has to act well enough to convince that she is not only a boy of him.

Grindley, Shandridge, Shropshire, Shuckburgh, Thurford, reveal the belief in supernatural beings of a lower order, elves, sprites, goblins. One can strike at random into Professor Elswall's book in the certainty of finding gold. Thus, "Goodwin Sands" is followed by the entry:

"There is a tradition that the Goodwines were an island belonging to Earl Godwine that was washed away by the sea in 1007. But Goodwin may be a name of a dangerous shoal meaning literally 'good friend,' and given for the same reason as the wolf is called 'gaufrif' (literally 'Goldenfooted') in some parts of Sweden."

Hungerford is literally "hunger ford," or "ford where people had to starve"; Ickneshaw means "squirrel wood"; and Leatherhead probably means "the public ford." Leatherhead is crossed at the point where the Mole is crossed by an important road.

Names of domestic animals are common, as in Cowley, Oxton, Sheepson, Shipwreck. It is interesting, Professor Elswall notes, to find that the custom of grazing cattle at some distance from the home village or homestead—a custom still common in Scandinavia—must have been prevalent in England, not only in Scandinavian districts, but in purely English areas. In the North, names in "—set" and "—er" testify to it, and in the South we find numerous names in "—stac" and "—wic."

Somerton must have been a place to which people moved in summer for the sake of better pasture, and there is even a case, Professor Elswall records, where Somerton and Winterton are found close together.

In Kent and Sussex, "villages in lowlying districts had outlying pastures in the Weald districts. They were called 'denn' and seem to have been used mostly for swine-pastures. Likewise, marshland was allotted to various villages. Place-names sometimes give a hint as to the mother-village of a 'denn' or piece of marsh. Tenterden is the 'denn' of the Thantel people, Burmarsh in South Kent, the marsh of the Canterbury people."

The book is more than an exhaustive work of reference; it is at once dictionary, history and romance.

MORE QUINTS

seventeen, but on occasion a boy masquerading as a girl.

Thama Lemnitz did all this and beyond that sang, as she sings in this record, exquisitely.

YEHUDI MENÜHIN has gone into the California wilderness to retire from concert work for two years, but he has left a stack of recordings behind him for us to remember him by.

His latest pleases me far more than the next playing. It introduces an unfamiliar concerto, Dvorak in A minor, which for my part can supplant the Brahms for the next few years without causing at least one concert-goer any tears.

The Dvorak, like the Brahms, was written for and with the help of Joachim, but there the resemblance ends. Where the Brahms is repetitive the Dvorak gets on with the job. It is full of good tunes, especially the slow movement, and every bar of it is characteristic of the composer's grace and elegant craftsmanship.

Yehudi's recording is HMV DB 2038—41.

TEN years before Liszt died Moritz Rosenthal made his debut as a pianist. Rosenthal, one of the few surviving pupils of Liszt, is still playing the piano.

His first record for many years is issued by H.M.V.

Rosenthal is one of the great Chopin players of this world and his performance of three Chopin preludes and the Flat Waltz (Op. 42) is as lovely as you could wish.

Most enchanting of all is the way he plays the gracious little Andantino which is the seventh of Chopin's Twenty-Four.

YOU SHOULD LIKE . . .

MARIAN ANDERSON (H.M.V. DB 2837). A great Negro contralto, not unknown here but better known on the Continent, where she sells out nine times in ten. Her record is of three spirituals.

ERIC COATES. One of the finest of British violin players who is better known these days as a composer, has written a new suite: "London Agata." He conducts himself on Columbia DA 736-7; Disc: "Coral and the Palladium Orchestra play it on H.M.V. 63841.

MAURICE CHEVALIER (H.M.V. D 340). From his new picture, "The Beloved Vaquard," this fine artist sings, "You look so sweet, Madame," and "Tsin-tin-doodle-day."

HE WAS A GENTLEMAN'S GENTLEMAN. This musical Jerry is celebrated in song by Billy Cotton (Record MR 2094), Michael Carr—who wrote it—(Parlophone F 480); Roy Fox (H.M.V. DB 3070).

"TELEGRAPH" SIX-DAY SERIAL

SYNOPSIS.—Driving west to marry Katherine Grant, Joe is arrested on suspicion of being one of the kidnappers of a young girl. Infuriated townsfolk storm the jail, Katherine, learning of his arrest, arrives at the jail has been fired, and tablets. Dynamite tears off the door of his cell, and Joe escapes back to Chicago, legless and dead. The actual kidnappers are caught, Joe sends his brothers to file murder charges against members of the mob, but the District Attorney can't find one person who will admit Joe was in the jail when it was burned—and he has nobody. But they leave that Katherine saw Joe at the cell window as the jail burned.

A picture was thrown upon the screen. It showed men running in! The court the next day. When the court was finally called to order, the Judge addressed the jurors: "Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, I have received an object, which, if authentic, must be considered as evidence in this case. It's authenticity, I have you must decide for yourselves. Over called by the District Attorney; it is called for by the defense, I have asked the District Attorney to present it to you."

Dawson glared at the screen, his mouth half open with fear. The District Attorney explained that the object he came in a special delivery letter addressed to the Judge. It had come with a communication.

The newsreel was again flashed on the screen, showing other members of the mob, Mrs. Sally Humphrey throwing a lit match; Frederick Garrett fighting the firemen who attempted to extinguish the flame, for possession of the hose. Mrs. Garrett, who had testified that her husband was home all evening, claimed Twenty-two defendants were thus identified.

Defense attorneys were quick on their feet. "Your Honour, our clients are not on trial for being at a fire, for starting a fire, or for bushing in a jail, but for the murder of Joseph Wilson, which the State has not proved. Who proves that Joseph Wilson was in the jail at the time the jail was burned?"

"We call Katherine Grant to the stand," said the District Attorney.

After the preliminary questions and answers were over she was instructed to tell her story in her own way.

"I fixed a little lunch of things, I had, with flowers on the table and ... and salted peanuts. It was always fond of them. I went to Sycamore Corners to meet him, stopping on the way to remind the minister that Joe and I would be there at four o'clock to be married. We'd been away from each other for more than a year, and I loved him so."

She told how she had learned that he was in jail as a kidnapper suspect, how she got to Sage and looked up from beside the lamp-post.

"I saw him in the laundry window, behind the bars, his face ... The mob was screaming. There he is! They threw stones, hitting him, driving him back from the window, back into the flames."

Defense lawyers tried to shake her testimony to get her to admit that she was so untrusting and nervous that she expected to see Joe Wilson in that jail and that what she thought he saw was nothing but a hallucination.

"Under the law," said an associate defense attorney, "jives must not be taken on assumption but on facts. Where is the corpse of Joseph Wilson?"

"Before the jail site was cold," said the District Attorney, "witnesses testified that they cleaned it up and dumped the ashes into the river. In that way they got rid of the body of their victim."

"The law is that a corpus delicti, or at least fragments of a human body, or articles known to have been worn by him, must be proved. It has not been proved that Joseph Wilson is dead. It cannot be proved. He may have escaped and be alive to-day—perhaps with his memory gone. In the absence of convincing proof of corpus delicti, Your Honour, I move that this indictment be set aside and the charge against these defendants be dismissed."

"I can't stand it any more! I want to confess! I threw him in! I helped kill him! We all helped kill him! We're all guilty!"

"She tried to pull away from restraining hands, to go to Katherine, shake her."

H.K. Business On Up Grade WHITEAWAYS' NEW CAMPAIGN

The full page advertisement for Messrs. Whiteaway, Ladlow & Co. Ltd., appearing in to-day's issue, calls for special attention, being the first of a series of full and half-page advertisements. The importance of such an intensive campaign lies in the fact that "Whiteaway" are strongly of the opinion that business generally shows definite signs of improvement, and the considered view of a firm operating over forty branches throughout the Far East, must of course, be taken seriously.

As far as Hongkong is concerned, this campaign represents the largest advertising order to newspapers ever given, two full-pages and eight half-pages being booked for publication within one month. The South China Morning Post and the Hongkong Telegraph are the two newspapers selected for this publicity.

The manager of Whiteaway's informs us that the firm's London buyers are fully confident that the campaign will prove a great success, for the stocks in all departments have been purchased at the keenest prices, and, furthermore, the merchandise offered sets a high standard of quality.

areas of danger in the Spanish civil war were carried further to-day, according to messages reaching London.

Three British destroyers disembarked at Marseilles nearly three hundred persons from Barcelona, and H.M.S. London was reported to be in Barcelona Harbour with about one hundred refugees on board and to be taking off more American nationals.

British warships are standing by at Palma, Malaga, Alicante, Almeria and other places, ready to take off British and other nationals in case of need. A British destroyer has been to Tarragona and taken off three British and five Americans.

H.M.S. Veteran and Verity arrived this morning at San Sebastian.—British Wireless.

GREEN BELT FOR LONDON

KING TAKES ACTIVE INTEREST

London, July 24. Another stage towards the completion of a "green belt" round outer London was taken to-day by the Middlesex County Council in agreeing to the purchase from the estate of the Royal Duchy of Lancaster, for £315,000, of two thousand acres near Enfield.

The King has taken great interest in the matter and steps have been taken to ensure that the area purchased shall suffer no change apart from setting aside some portion for playing fields.—British Wireless.

SILVER IMPORTS INCREASE

IN RELATION TO GOLD IN U.S.

Washington, July 24. The Department of Commerce reports silver imports into the United States for the week ended July 17 as totalling $1,618,712.

This exceeded the gold imports, which totalled $1,395,167, indicating a possible permanent reversal of the predominance of gold over silver which has prevailed throughout the past month.

Sources of the silver imports were as follow: Mexico, $1,083,380; Peru, $220,713; U.K., $116,186; Canada, $97,642.—United Press.

Wheat: There are indications of fresh Trade interest. Final July tenders have now stopped. The underline is steady and the market acts well.

Wheat: There are ample supplies for the immediate future. Heavy hedge selling however, is preventing any sustained upturns. A gradual tightening of the situation is probable as prices decline. A modern miller estimates the Canadian crop at 225,
